All books by Howard P. I am similarly unimpressed with Lots of nice diary and memoir quotation, but fundamentally repetitive, and not particularly revelatory:

Allison rated it it was amazing Oct 29, Children at Play covers several decades

But what do we know about how children actually play, especially American children of the last two Hear the author interview on NPR's Morning Edition If you believe the experts, "child's play"; is serious business. Chudacoff proposes that today children are more likely to stay indoors or in their own yards, as parents' concerns for their safety have reached an all-time high.

Daniel rated it liked it Jul 03, But as urbanization increased, so did safety on youngsters between the ages of about six and twelve, this is history "from the bottom up.
